ELECTIONS TO-DAY.

Elections for State officers and members of the Lower House of Congress are held to-day in the States of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Iowa and Nebraska. Pennsylvania and Indiana also elect Governors. While the result is regarded as certain for the Republicans in Iowa, hopes of a Liberal and Democratic triumph in Ohio and Nebraska are entertained by the more enthusiastic of the party, and Pennsylvania and Indiana are claimed by both parties. The five States which hold elections to-day will on the 5th of next month choose Presidential Electors in number as follows: Pennsylvania, 29; Ohio, 22; Indiana, 15; Iowa, 11; Nebraska, 3—total, 80. The result in those States is therefore awaited with the greatest interest by men of all parties, for it is not improper to conclude that decisive majorities in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana will settle the Presidential contest in the minds of the more reflective men. At the election in 1871 the Republicans had a plurality 14,490 over the Democrats, and 11,315 majority over the Democratic and Temperance candidates combined in Pennsylvania. As there is no Temperance ticket in the field, we cannot do no better than divide that vote between the two parties to the contest to-day, leaving the Republicans with the advantage of a little less than 12,000 in a probable vote of 600,000 to-day, or about one in every 50; so, basing our estimate upon the vote of last year, a change of one in every hundred will give the State to the Democrats. The great popularity of ex-Senator Bucklew, the Democratic nominee for Governor, and the lukewarm attitude of Forney and other prominent Republicans, give good reason for believing that the Democrats will carry the Keystone State to-day.

In Ohio the outlook is not so hopeful. In 1871 there were 446,378 votes cast, and the Republicans had a majority of 20,168. The vote to-day will probably reach 500,000, leaving the Republicans a majority of one in every 25—a majority not easily overcome.

Indiana went Democratic at the last previous election by a small majority, and the Liberal Republicans and Democrats are more than hopeful of carrying the State to-day. It should be noted in this connection that from 1868 to 1870 the Democrats lost 6,921 votes to 19,061 by the Republicans.

Iowa is overwhelmingly Republican, and the most we can hope to do to-day is to reduce the Republican majority. Nebraska is not hopeless, in view of the fact that from 1868 to 1870 the Democratic vote increased 3,209, while the Republicans gained only 1,391 by the increase of population.

THE INDIAN POLICY.

It was with some astonishment that we read that the murderous Kiowa Chiefs, Santanta and Big Tree, were allowed to leave the limits of the prison to which they had been sentenced for life and meet the other chiefs of their tribe at St. Louis. The Quaker policy papers note with a good deal of mauling sentimentalism the meeting of these Indians, their kissing and blubbering. These journals, however, forget the crimes of these savages. The dead, the women and children led into a captivity worse than death, and the men slain by the cruellest tortures, the burned houses and wasted settlements, are all forgotten by these pseudo humanitarians, and only sympathy is manifested for these bloodthirsty wretches, whose instincts are simply those of so many beasts of prey. The farce of treaty making with the Apaches, Comanches and Kiowas as shown by experience only increases the number of outrages and the power of committing them. The only arguments that these Indians understand and respect are the stern logic and conclusive effects of the rifle and knife, and until these are the sole means resorted to to compel submission, the lives of the frontier settler will remain as they are now—at the mercy of the most treacherous, cruel and cunning set of savages that ever roamed over the American continent. The Indian policy of the Administration has cost the lives of more American citizens than those of the whole bunch of Indian Commissioners and their journalistic allies are worth. If the latter had had their houses burned over their heads, their wives and daughters ravished and the brains of their infants dashed out on the ground, it is possible that the meeting of a parcel of dirty thieving blood-stained murderers might not seem so affecting. An experience of this kind, which has so often been the fate of better and braver men, would stop the confusion of the sickly mawkish stuff which has proved to be the surest ally of the savage and the deadliest foe of the settler.

Telegraphic Dispatches.

SPECIAL TO THE POCHE DAILY RECORD EASTERN.

Washington, Oct. 6.—It is anticipated in official circles that the award of the Geneva tribunal will be paid before the expiration of twelve months from the time of its announcement—this being the treaty limit. The money will be paid to the Department of State, and as there is no law concerning its disposal legislation by Congress becomes necessary for that purpose.

The only official information concerning the San Juan arbitration is that a decision will be made early this month. No appointment of Minister to Sweden is contemplated until the Senate shall be in session to confirm it.

The Government has taken no recent action under the Ku Klux law, no complaints authorizing it having been made.

The United States and Spanish Commission, though organized more than a year ago, has not adjudicated any claims. Some of them will be ready for consideration at the next meeting of the Commission this month. Dr. Howard's memorial is not yet received.

Minister Nelson informed the Department of State that there is a prospect of the Mexican Government soon appointing a Commission, in order that the business before the U. S. Mexican Claims Commission may be resumed.

F. A. Boswell, Republican, having withdrawn as a candidate for delegate in Congress for the District of Columbia, the contest is now between Gen. Chipman, Republican, present incumbent, and F. G. Hine, supported by the Liberal Republicans and Democrats.

New York, Oct. 7.—Greeley has been invited to make another Western tour. A large number of people alleged to have registered fraudulently in Newark, N. J., have been summoned to appear before the Grand Jury on Monday.

Ex-Gov. Curtin spoke again in Philadelphia last night, but did not allude to national politics.

A special from Knoxville, Tenn., says serious trouble is apprehended between the authorities in Georgia and the U. S. Marshals. Gov. Smith has told the present Receiver of the Alabama and Chattanooga Railroad not to surrender the road to Judge Harbison and Lewis Rice, Receivers appointed by Associate Justice Bradley of the U. S. Supreme Court. Gen. Wolford says he is instructed to tear up every rail and burn every bridge before giving up the road. The Marshals have already arrested the Sheriff of Dale county, and further trouble is apprehended.

New York, Oct. 7.—Proctor and Denning, convicted of burglary at the First National Bank, Jersey City, were discovered to-day in a plot to escape from jail. Five pounds of powder were found in their cells, sent in in peach cans.

With a view of easing the money market, Acting Secretary Richardson has directed the Assistant Treasurer to buy five millions of bonds and sell five millions of gold to-morrow, subject to the usual conditions of monthly purchases of bonds and sales of gold.

Boston, Oct. 7.—Rev. Geo. F. Hastings, an eminent Catholic Priest, and founder of the House Angel Guardian, Roxbury, Mass., died here yesterday morning.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—A Washington special states that the interest felt in the elections to-morrow is so great that business is nearly at a stand. Advisers from both political parties in Philadelphia show that both are equally confident of victory. The Pennsylvania Republican Congressional Committee here claims a majority of 12,000 for Hartcraft in Philadelphia, and from 3,000 to 9,000 in the State, outside of Philadelphia. Senator Cameron claims 10,000 majority for Hartcraft in the entire State.

A WARNING TO PHILIP KLINGEN SMITH.

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 1, 1872. MR. PAT. HOLLAND—Dear Sir: As you will probably know the whereabouts of Smith, who made the celebrated affidavit respecting the Mountain Meadows massacre, I wish you would caution him about a man named Springmyer, alias McFarlane, alias McPherson, alias Missouri Bill, who is reported to me to be in Nevada for the purpose of making way with Smith. When last heard from he was in Eureka. He is 5 feet 6 or 7 inches high; rather roundheaded; 35 to 38 years of age; blue eyes; brown hair; nervous and disconnected in his talk; fond of telling his Indian adventures, and easily pumped. The Mormons here say he has gone to fix Smith, and they brag that the affidavit will never do any good, as he will never testify. I have reason, good reason, to believe that Mr. Smith should take more than ordinary care of his person. Will you see that he gets a hint?

The above is not intended for a sensational item, but is undoubtedly well founded. The writer is personally known to us as a gentleman whose facilities for obtaining reliable information of that character are unsurpassed by those of any other individual in Utah Territory. That there is a movement on foot to assassinate Mr. Smith we have not the least doubt, and it behooves him to be vigilant if he desires to defeat it. Any one having lived among the Mormons as long as Smith has ought to know that his life is in danger, and govern himself accordingly. The best thing that Mr. Smith can do for himself and the Government is to go at once to Salt Lake City and place himself under the protection of Gen. Morrow, at Camp Douglas. We hope that some of Mr. Smith's friends will cut this article from the paper and forward it to him as soon as possible.

HON. C. W. KENDALL.—The Washington C. C. Gazette this speaks of the gentleman named: The Liberal Republicans of the Silver State have shown wisdom in renominating their present efficient and industrious Representative in Congress for the next term. He has established a record in the House deserving this recognition, and we hope the people of his State will ignore party considerations by returning him to his present field of usefulness with an overwhelming majority. Mr. K. reflects honor on his State, and has made hosts of friends in this city.

NEWS ITEMS.

One of the colored scholars ruled out of the white schools of San Francisco has given notice of his intention to apply to the Supreme Court for a writ of mandamus to compel the school authorities to admit her.

It is stated that the physicians in attendance on the Fair trial as witnesses have submitted bills for the approval of Judge Rendon at the rate of $100 per day each, or averaging from $700 to $900 each bill.

Says the Monterey Democrat, of the 28th: The Chinese have been taking cattle fish in considerable numbers during the week. Their appearance in this bay is something rare.

The American Fork R. R. will probably make its winter terminus about a mile and a half above Deer Creek, and within a little over three miles of the Miller mine.

The factory of the Sacramento valley best sugar company is in successful operation for the season, turning out a splendid article of sugar.

The richest gold diggings yet discovered in British Columbia are reported from Lost creek.

The great lawsuit involving the title of the celebrated Emma mine, near Salt Lake, is set for trial on the 21st inst.

The British Columbia parliament will be convened on the 15th of December. Gen. Hooker is at Salt Lake.

AN OUTSIDER ON POCHE.—Well, here we are at Poché, the wonder of these wonderful days, where nature's vast mineral resources are seemingly just opened.

One year ago this place was laid in ashes. For two days and two nights the citizens were without shelter except in a few cabins and holes in the sides of the hills, with a stone wall front, with small, narrow door, and one seven-by-nine sash. Fortunately, some provisions were saved in the few cellars of the stores, and some orders by teams near at hand, else great suffering must have ensued.

But what do we see to-day? The burnt district built better and more substantial than before. Business very lively. "They say" it is the liveliest and richest camp on the Coast. Three thousand inhabitants are claimed for it, which, doubtless, is true, for at least 1,500 miners and others can be seen daily on the streets at early evening. Some 250 shafts have been sunk and are being sunk to-day. Some fifty or more have struck rich.

The leading mines are well-known—Meadow Valley and Raymond & Ely. Several others are coming along to contest the supremacy for richness and permanency of lead. The Chief of the Hill, Page & Pannica, Bowery, Hune & Hunt, Phoenix, American Flag, Washington & Creole, Poché, and a long list of others, had one time to collate them, would swell the list, and startle old Washoeites at their wonderful developments. It is like bringing back old California scenes to take a walk through the streets at night. Wine, women (of color), gambling, burly gaudies; everything ad libitum, with none to say, "Why do you so?" unless they get too obstreperous, then down comes the Sheriff and chuckles them into jail.—[Cor. S. F. Chronicle.

A GLORIOUS CAUSE NOBLY DECIDED. This campaign of Reunion and Reform is the legitimate fruit of the Cincinnati movement in its purest and best sense, and the popular impulse which seized and sent it on its present path had as much wisdom as generosity in it. Before the best results of the labor and blood and gold expended in the war can be enjoyed, we must have a real and genuine peace, a reunion of hearts and hands, instead of unwilling and reluctant submission to military rule. The sword must not devour forever. The true war party of 1861 is the true peace party now. The war was made in the interests of freedom and union, and now to save freedom and the Union the war must end, and end at once. With an effortless and remarkable as their vindictiveness, the party of Hate arrogate to themselves the legitimate succession of that noble and self-sacrificing coalition of the army and the country which accepted the war, and carried it through to its triumphant close. But they are working now in the interests of perpetual discord, and when they carry the tattered flags and guidons of battle into political conventions where the only object to be obtained is the renewed plunder and continued degradation of the Southern people, they commit a brazen and shameless sacrifice. If the war is to pass into history as anything but a frightful carnage, if the blood spilt on a thousand fields is to fructify and not curse the land, if the cause for which Lyon and Wadsworth, Sedgwick and Lincoln gave up their lives is to go on to a full realization of its glorious and beneficent plan, it can only be by the triumph of this liberal principle, which shall bring the sundered States together and make all the sections feel once more a common interest in their common government.

We shall make no apology to our readers for reproducing the above extract from the New York Tribune. Never were apt words more fittingly spoken than in the above eloquent passage, which appeals to the purest and best feelings of the heart, while it satisfies and convinces the intellect.

What a happy man Grant must be. The strong-minded had a meeting in Massachusetts whereat the said strong-minded in a shrill chorus determined to give Grant their support. Bless us! What a rage the Woodhull and George Francis will be in when they find that the hoopskirts have thrown off on that renowned twin.
